

Dear Reader,

For the information of your visitors and guests, STINAPA provides you with the nature fees that are effective as from March 1, 2019.

On the next page you find the fee schedules for entry to the Bonaire National Marine Park (BNMP) and Washington Slagbaai National Park (WSNP), each preceded by a brief explanation. The page can be printed to be put on the front desk, hung somewhere in view or entered in information folders in rooms and apartments.

The information below is for non-resident visitors only. WSNP has different fees for visitors from Aruba, Curaçao, Sint-Maarten, St. Eustatius, Saba. For Bonairian residents separate fees apply for both BNMP and WSNP. This more detailed information is specified on the annexed poster.

The entrance fees for our national parks are the main funding for sustainable management and protection of Bonaire's nature treasures, on land and in the sea. Therefore, the purchase of the round dive tag (SCUBA diving) or square nature tag (all other water activities) is required by law: Island Resolution Marine Park 2010 paragraph II article 2.

The high nature values of our island are not only our natural, but also our economic capital. Tourists from all over the world visit Bonaire for its unique and varied nature, on land and in the sea. STINAPA works for the best possible nature experience, in a joint effort with hospitality providers, activity centers, visitors and guests. We call on you to spread the information, explain why the nature fees are mandatory and encourage people to contribute.

If you need more information or have any questions, do not hesitate to contact us.

Best regards,
STINAPA Bonaire

BONAIRE NATIONAL MARINE PARK

The sea around Bonaire and Klein Bonaire - the Bonaire National Marine Park (BNMP) - is protected and managed by STINAPA. Users are required to pay an entrance fee, known as the nature tag. Your fees are the main funding for sustainable management of our national parks. They contribute to the preservation of our most vital resources, on land and in the ocean.

The round 'dive' tag is for SCUBA diving including a marine park orientation. The square 'nature' tag is for all other watersports activities, like swimming, kite- and windsurfing, kayaking and so on, including fishing and yachting. The paper receipt of your tag and your ID is required to gain discounted entry to Washington Slagbaai National Park (WSNP).

You can purchase your nature tag at dive shops, activity centers, and STINAPA headquarters. At the request of rangers and employees of STINAPA you must be able to show proof of payment.

NON-RESIDENT VISITORS

Activity	Fee	Proof of payment
SCUBA diving, calendar year	$ 45	round dive tag
Other water activities, calendar year	$ 25	square nature tag

Note: - Children under 12, passengers of cruise ships and crews of commercial vessels do not pay for other water activities. However, if SCUBA-diving, they pay the fee stated above.

WASHINGTON SLAGBAAI NATIONAL PARK

Washington Slagbaai National Park (WSNP) is a nature sanctuary located in the northwestern part of the island. Users must pay the nature tag fee to enter. Those who only want to visit the Visitor Center at the entrance of the park, pay a separate entrance fee. Your fees are the main funding for sustainable management of our national parks. They contribute to the preservation of our most vital resources, on land and in the ocean.

In the park are many activities, including car touring, hiking, mountain biking, SCUBA diving, snorkeling, swimming, bird watching and nature study. The park offers guided activities and tours at additional costs. The paper receipt of your nature tag and your ID is required to gain discounted entry to the park.

You can purchase your nature tag at dive shops, activity centers, the entrance of WSNP and STINAPA headquarters. At the request of rangers and employees of STINAPA you must be able to show proof of payment.
